

ADAMUS SAINT-GERMAIN

Embodiment series 7, February 2005

The energies of Saint-Germain – I am that I am – are familiar to all of Shaumbra. We have worked together before. Let me go through some of my history to help you to remember.

I have gone through more hell than any one of you who is sitting here or in this room. I have gone to greater depths and darknesses. I have gone through miseries. I have battled the demons. I have battled the devil him and herself. I have spent many, many lifetimes in the lowest of the low. So, when I speak to you, and we communicate like this, I know what you are going through. I know the darkness, or the depths, or the difficulties. I have been there. I have gone through worse. I have greater stories than any of you, Shaumbra, today. So, I understand.

I use the identity of Saint-Germain, Count Saint-Germain. I bestowed that title on myself; it was a wonderful one. I actually created the name. My truer identity – and the name that I was called by those who knew me in that lifetime – was Adamus. It is a more familiar name to me, and it has its derivatives in the term Adam. And, Adam is the essential energy of man and woman here on Earth. So, I adopted that name, Adamus, for myself. And, it is how I'm known to Tobias and Kuthumi and the others, and to most of you also. So many of you call me Professor Adamus. And, I enjoy that title as well.

My energy goes back as far as you go back. We shared times together in the Atlantean era. I was known in the biblical times as the one you would call Samuel. And, from that lifetime I spent a whole series of lifetimes on the dark road in the depths. I wanted to explore what it would be like to go to the bottom of humanity, the bottom of vibration. I wanted to explore what it would be like to be totally consumed by the energy of this Earth, totally consumed by the energy of what you would call an "ego."

So, I spent many lifetimes in this. I met many of you during these times. You may remember me as a poor, wretched one. You may remember me as one who kills you, one who betrayed you. So, that energy sometimes still shows up when we get together. But, I did this to help me understand the true origins of human nature.

I have to say that so many of you have also done this to certain degrees. You have given of yourself to find out what it is like. You have to explore all of the realms and all of the boundaries of this human condition to understand the totalness of your divinity. That is why we are here. That is why we are sitting here on this day. That is why we are here in the realms.

There is this thing called the Crimson Council on our side of the veil. You are all participants and members and strong influences in it. This is where we get together during your dream state or during your multi-dimensional travel. The Crimson Council is not one of the pillars of the Order of the Arc. We all come from different places, different families... the family of Michael... and the family of Raphael... the family of To-bi-wah. We converged into this thing called the Crimson Council at this time.

And, as you know, it also consists of the energies of Ohamah, Kuthumi, Tobias. There are strong influences with Quan Yin and many, many others. You are active participants in this. We are not at a higher level than you. You are simply manifested on Earth right now, and we are not... possibly... that is a whole other discussion.

I am speaking right now through this one you call Cauldre. He has been taken somewhere else for the time being. But, I will have you know that I'm also present in the room with you in a human form, a human form that you will not see after this day. You don't need to look around (audience laughter). I can manifest myself in a variety of forms and shapes. I can appear momentarily and disappear the next. I can create a story that has so much character and personality and depth to it that it continues its essence for a period of time until I disconnect it.

And, this is something that each and every one of you here can do as well. That is where we are going. Tobias has told you that this is going to be different year, a year of freedom of the soul. That is where we are going. Tobias has assigned me to speak to Shaumbra for the next two sessions on the nature of energy and how to transmute. Or, let's call it "move energy." Energy is an amazing thing, amazing. And, it doesn't exist! I'll tell you why in just a few moments.

But, first let me tell you more about myself. I am very proud to do this. And, I wish those of you who are here listening would be as proud of your own stories as well. Indeed, I was the energy of Samuel. I spent many, many lifetimes in what you would call lower positions, as well, dark positions. I can tell tremendous stories about some of the things I went through, including, yes, indeed a time where I had no lapse between lifetimes. I remembered everything, one lifetime after another. That is hell... unless you are prepared for it. You, Shaumbra, are prepared for it. I was not at the time. It is hell. It is hell, continuing a story, continuing the memories, not having a resolution. It is hell.

I helped to create the energies of the one that you call Saint Francis of Assisi, an unsouled being, who I helped to create with Kuthumi and some others. I have been incarnated on Earth as the energy of Francis Bacon, commonly known also as Shakespeare. But, with my deep love for writing, I have also incarnated as the energy of Samuel Clemens, Mark Twain. It was an incredible lifetime. I traveled the world. I wrote my stories. I shared many times with so many of Shaumbra. I actually had the one that you know as Cauldre in my employment for a short period of time in the place that you would call Virginia City when I had a newspaper there.

In my lifetime as Saint-Germain I was born in an area of what you would now know as Spain to a Portuguese father who was also Jewish and a mother who had royal Spanish lineage. My name was not Count Saint-Germain, or Saint-Germain (said with a French accent this time). I changed it later when I began my travelings.

I traveled throughout Europe. I brought with me into that lifetime information. I brought with me so much energy that I had built up over a long period of time. I brought it with me. And, I understood, and I knew how to transmute.

It is simple, Shaumbra. It is so simple to take a diamond in your hand and clear any of the flaws in it. It is simple. You are trying too hard. That is the problem. I could take simple stones, put them in my pocket, and pull out gold. It is simple. You are trying too hard. You are trying to apply force to energy, and it doesn't work, does it? There is no sleight of hand here. There are no miracles here. It is simple physics. And, we are going to be going into some of that.

In my lifetime as Saint-Germain I counseled Louis XV. We spent many hours behind closed doors. I helped him to try to understand the nature of energy. Of course, he was more interested in how to turn rocks into gold, and I would never show him (some laughter). He wanted to know how to clear a diamond. He wanted to know how I could shape-shift, how I could change my form and turn into different beings at any time. Yes, for Garret, for Norma, Linda, and Cauldre, I was your cab driver when you went to Paris recently, the trip that I helped to arrange. Yes, you were looking for a taxi in the airport. You looked so lost and confused (some laughter), somewhat frightened even. And, I appeared. You helped me to appear. I appeared in the form as a cab driver. And, I guided you safely to your hotel. I appeared several other times throughout your stay there. But, you didn't recognize me. I can do this, Shaumbra, and you can too.

In my lifetime as Saint-Germain I also counseled Madame Pompadour. I spent many hours with her, helping her to understand the whole nature of what you call Spirit or God – not that I have the answer to this – but I have an answer that is, I believe, more valid and more truthful than any one of the religions on your Earth right now.

I have an aversion to religions, and I expressed this vehemently in my lifetime as Saint-Germain. It got me into a bit of trouble (some laughter). The church leaders are pompous. The church leaders are fearful. I'm glad I can say this. Tobias would not express these feelings so vigorously. The church energy right now is what is holding Earth back, what is holding humanity back. It is probably the most diseased energy of any on Earth. And, I am going to come back soon. I'm going to – as you would say – kick some ass (audience laughter) in terms of religion (more laughter and applause). I have heard Cauldre say many times that I'm far too serious, that I don't have a sense of humor. But, I do. For those of you who are just tuning in now I am Count Saint-Germain. I am replacing Tobias today. We dispensed with your discussion. You can read about it later. We are talking here with a group in this Coal Creek Canyon about the nature of energy, about who you truly are. We are talking about what an Energy Mover is.

Ever since Tobias introduced this subject, you have been wondering how to move energy. You have been playing your little games, trying to move things energetically. We are going to talk to you about how it is actually done. I am probably going to irritate some of you, but not nearly as much as Ohamah can (audience laughter). I am going to challenge you at your depth to get unstuck from your story. I going to push you into understanding who you truly are, how energy works, so much so that some of you could be pushed to the point of even death. But, that is nothing.

I am here sitting in this room right now. I never died. In my lifetime as Saint-Germain, I walked out of my body. I walked out of it. There was no long, prolonged death. I didn't do any suffering. There was no pain. I walked out of my body. And, this is a true, true story – it disappeared the moment I walked out of it. There are no bones buried in the ground, no flesh left to stink and rot. I walked out.

And, this is where we are going, Shaumbra. This is what you have asked for. This is why you are here on Earth right now. I walked out. And, I can walk back in. Yes, it sounds like the New Earth, doesn't it? I can walk back in at any time, manifest myself, my energies into human reality.

Question 4 about Realization

ADAMUS: Because I tell my story. I chose the right parents. I had an amazing education, hardly studied at all and learned more than you'll ever know in a lifetime. I had an amazing education, it was all about absorbing the energies, not studying the energies. I left my school in the Rákóczi family when I was about 20 years old with not a penny in my pocket, and within a year I was wealthy. Within about six years I had five huge estates in Europe. Never worked a day in my life. So actually, I did understand energy and I used that lifetime to kind of do what I wanted to do. I wrote a lot of music, some of it which is still around. Did a lot of painting, which I loved doing. Did a lot of traveling, did a lot of negotiating with – I was trying to bring Europe together – did a lot of negotiating with the royals and the ones who were in power, even the Church. It was a fascinating lifetime, so in a way I actually did do it. I did do it.

LINDA: Okay.

ADAMUS: Yeah. So, and that's why I'm the perfect one (Adamus chuckles) – I make Cauldre laugh sometimes – because of that experience.

I wasn't a pauper in my last lifetime. I wasn't a sufferer. Oh! It abhors me to think about suffering, and we're going to be talking about that. My lifetime as St. Germain, in a way, was a set-up to be able to teach all of you about staying on the planet working with energy. And I'll tell you a little bit more – that I could have also had my full Realization earlier in that lifetime or even before. I chose to go about 99 percent of the way and hold back just a little bit so I could basically stay in the human body, stay in life, have my fun, have the basis of the wisdom that I was going to pass on to you about letting energy work for you and then, at the very, very end I allowed in that final little bit.

QUESTION 5: You say we can eat anything, but you never ate anything but oatmeal. Can you help us understand?

ADAMUS: Sure. Yeah, that's not totally true. I preferred my diet of oatmeal, which actually is a – I don't know what you call it these days – an antioxidant or anti-something. Oatmeal literally pulls toxins from the system and then – ahem – disposes of them, and I liked the honey for a little bit of sweetness. It was also good for – in case you have allergies, raw honey is particularly good, and I liked the nuts for the protein. I just preferred it. It wasn't a diet that I had to be on, that I had to force myself. I just preferred it. I got to feeling foods were rather heavy and particularly back then in my lifetime in the 18th Century some of the food was just awful, unbelievably awful. I mean, you know I spent a lot of years in the Transylvania area and that was not the best food in the world.

Some of the other foods I just found to be too rich, too fatty, too bland in a lot of cases, and I do have to say, dear Linda and Shaumbra, I was a gourmet cook. Literally, I was an amazing gourmet cook, as you might imagine. I learned during my time in France. I just didn't care for a lot of the foods.

Angels and Aliens 2011 Saint-Germain in Poland

In my lifetime as Count Adamus Saint-Germain, a self-appointed title of course, I spent a lot of time in this area. There was a group of us trying to bring together the European community, and this was in the approximately 1740 to 1795 time period. I traveled extensively throughout Europe. I worked with kings and queens, princes and magnates, trying to bring a peace, a settlement back to Europe which was ravaged by war, tried to bring back an equity for the people, because the people everywhere were being denied of their basic human rights.

Every human has the right to make their own choices in their life. Every human has the right to put their hands in the soil. Every human has the right to dignity and respect. Every human has the right to fulfill their dreams, whatever their dreams may be.

There were a lot of corrupt forces in Europe in this time period of the mid-to-late 1700s. Royal families having far too much control; a belief system that allowed there to be peasants and serfs, human slaves; and there was tremendous interference by groups – groups such as the Church.

Now, I want to clear the record here. I have worked with and have been around the energy of Sananda. Sananda is an angelic house or Order, very active in the service to humans on Earth. This Order of Sananda has sent representatives to this planet to work with humans for human empowerment. You know one of these representatives by the name of Yeshua. I don't even like using the word Jesus, because that wasn't his name and that's certainly not his energy.

So, over the course of time, I was very involved in what you would now call the original Christian church. The principals of that church were about self-love, self-trust, self-empowerment. But as the church grew over many hundreds of years of time, it became corrupt. It got away from sharing the mysteries. It put a few humans in charge of a lot of humans. It hid the light.

So, in trying to unify Europe, I had to deal with the powers of the churches and the royals, and I had to deal with the agendas of the angels that weren't quite so kind to humanity, and the aliens who have been constantly interfering with the goings-on of humans. The central part of the work we were doing involved Poland. Why? Poland had one of the greatest potentials for human freedom. The people of Poland had a deep and intimate connection with the land. The Poles had made a commitment – you had made a commitment – for freedom. But more than anything, this land was the one where the focus of the angel wars was taking place.

After a lot of work trying to pull the European nations together, it finally became apparent that the royals were not going to let go of their control, the church was not going to let go of their strong hold on people, and the focus was put instead on the place now known as America – the new land, the new freedom and the new opportunity. And a lot of Poles came to America to be part of this New Atlantis, knowing that someday, one way or the other, they would return home. Either by incarnation, by jet airplane or whatever, they would return home. They would return home for this time of freedom, for this time of great energy change in this place.

Let's take a deep breath ...

I want you to feel in for a moment to what you have done, what you've been doing, your journey of many, many lifetimes, your commitment to freedom, and your constant holding of the energy of hope.

A coincidence that President Barack Obama is here today? None whatsoever.

AMERICA

„A new potential, a potential for freedom and sovereignty“

I dealt extensively with the likes of Madam Pompadour, Maria Josepha in Germany, Margot of the French regions, and many, many other of the feminine or the female royalty. Many of them had actually attended – secretly attended – the Mystery Schools.

In my lifetime as Saint-Germain I also counseled Madame Pompadour. I spent many hours with her, helping her to understand the whole nature of what you call Spirit or God – not that I have the answer to this – but I have an answer that is, I believe, more valid and more truthful than any one of the religions on your Earth right now.

I have an aversion to religions, and I expressed this vehemently in my lifetime as Saint-Germain. It got me into a bit of trouble (some laughter). The church leaders are pompous. The church leaders are fearful. I'm glad I can say this. Tobias would not express these feelings so vigorously. Freedom 7 - February 5 2005

Most of them, incarnate in Europe at the time – the late 1600s and throughout the 1700s – had incarnated into the royal families, the positions of power, specifically to try to help change the balance of all that was taking place in Europe.

When they, when you, when I and the others working on it realized that it probably wasn't going to happen, that it was more difficult to clear out the old house and to rebuild it – the House of Europe – we realized that there was a new land, a free land that had been actually set up, preserved for a long, long, long time, called America.

It doesn't matter who discovered it – Norway – but the point of it is that ... (laughter) The point of it is that ... Eh, they'll fight about that for eternity. The point is that we realized it would be easier to set up a new land, a free land, what was called the New Atlantis. It was easier to bring some of these feminine energies over here, and some of the women and others – women I just mentioned – were integral to setting up this country.

Now, the history book talk about the signers of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, and you know a lot of men's names. They came in later. They also – a good number of them – understood what was happening. They understood that it was these women of Europe, wives of the kings and the princes and the barons and the counts, that were helping to create this.

America would become a beacon. It would attract people ultimately from all around the world. The only way this country could have worked out was to have people from all the lands of Europe and from Africa and from Asia and eventually what you now call South America. And it would be indigenous, and it would be the ones who had been on Earth for a long time and the new ones. They call it the melting pot, but it had to have that balance, had to have the balance of feminine energy here.

And it had to be tolerant, even of religious organizations. It had to be tolerant of the church. You'd think that we'd say, "No, keep the church out," because they're the ones who were causing so many problems in Europe with masculine imbalance and what we call the sexual energy virus.

NEXT 12 – July 2nd 2011

<https://www.crimsoncircle.com/LibraryTextViewer/ContentID/78>

So this grand country was set up, and there were many who came here before the Mayflower. They weren't written about. There were many who came here to energetically prepare this land. Some of you may have recollections, because your soul might have had an incarnation present at that time. Very similar to when the angelic beings came to Earth before it was ever populated with any living thing. The angelic beings came here and seeded. So it was that groups actually came to America long before the history books talk about, and seeded.

They talked to the indigenous, the First Nations people, the, what you call, the Indians, about creating this new Atlantis here. The indigenous ones totally understood. It is part of their lineage and part of their history that they passed down from generations to generations, "Someday this great land would house people from all over the world, people of high consciousness, people of understanding of what's going into the new era of humanity." And the original dealings with the indigenous ones were favorable and fair, equitable and truthful.

Unfortunately, later on it turned out that some of the indigenous didn't really want to give it up, as they had agreed to. The Anasazi's – let's talk about them – they understood that at some point this land would house people from all around the world looking to set up the land of liberty. They left, all at once – poof! Oh, you could say, well, it was a disease – it doesn't matter. You could say it was a mothership – probably not. No matter what you say, no matter what history says, it doesn't really matter. But they understood, and many of them incarnated back into what you would call the early settlers in this land.

This land was infused with the feminine and the masculine energy in a very healthy balance of both. It was set up on the principles of liberty, freedom for each and every person. Yes, I know you can argue that it took hundreds of years to get there, to get the vote for women. It didn't matter, because women really were the influence ... or, I should say, the goddess, the feminine, was the underlying influence in this country.

So people came here and this was set up with a large quantity of freedom. And we've talked about freedom in some of our other messages before. Do humans really want freedom? It's questionable. But at the time of the founding of the country, yes, they did.

So, dear Shaumbra, this country was designed as a beacon to radiate out to all the other lands, all throughout Europe, throughout Africa, Asia, all throughout the world what this freedom could be.

It was known early on that this country would have an abundance of resources, money, what you would call power – but it's really just the ability to attract energy to serve you – and it was known that this country would be strong in terms of going through some of the darkest, darkest times on Earth with some of the world wars and some of the other events, that this country would remain strong. It would remain the light for some of the darkest areas of humanity. It would remain strong even when there were beings from outside places, outer dimensions, trying to interfere.

This country, in its essence, knew that someday it would release that role. There wouldn't need to be one strong power on this planet, wouldn't need to be one place where there was a huge amount of abundance or power, and that's exactly what's happening right now.

The New Atlantis is working. I know many of you wonder about where this country is going, why the economic problems. Well, the economy is a problem all over the world, for the most part. And I have to chuckle; recently somebody asked did I foresee the economy of the world collapsing? It already has. That's the beautiful part. It did! It's based on really nothing these days, other than perhaps trust, and people have gone out of trust.

The real fabric for the world economy fell apart a few years ago. And the interesting thing is, it's still going on. You're still going on. It's not like the Depression era when it wreaked havoc on everything. That's the amazing thing. It fell apart and here we are. Because consciousness chooses to move forward, it doesn't need the structure the way it was before. It doesn't need a commune-ist structure, as some people are purporting – a communist structure. It doesn't need total breakdown. It has broken down, and here it is!

It's a good analogy with yourself. You've broken down, and you're still here. You've broken down in every possible way – mentally, physically, spiritually – but yet there's something so persevering now in you, in your relationship with your soul, in your desire and passion to live, that it just keeps going. It's amazing.

It's an interesting theory – things can break down and still keep going. It defies most physics and logic, but it's very, very true. Watch how, over the next few years, whether it's you personally or groups or nations or the world, can actually fall apart. In other words, the old identity de-structures, de-identifies. But the real identity, the real truth keeps living on. Ah! It's a beautiful thing.

So, dear Shaumbra, let's take a deep breath with that.

Now, bear all this in mind. We're going to connect the dots here, because they all do tie in together.

And here we are, July 4th 2015. Such an honor. July 4th rings special for me. It's actually July 2nd, but let's not mess with historic details. But July 4th, always special. Why? Because I was instrumental in helping to create this great country. And even if you're not from the United States of America, this isn't a patriotic rant. I don't believe so much in patriotic rants. What it was was a new potential, a potential for freedom and sovereignty. Having nothing to do – implied to have nothing to do – about governments, but your freedom and sovereignty. And you've come here from all over the world – your ancestors – all over Europe, South America, Asia, everywhere around the world to be here to allow something called freedom.

Has it worked? To a large degree, yes. The world's infinitely different than it was back in 1776. Light years ahead in terms of respect and equality, and you're seeing it more and more every day all around the world. It's contagious right now, this whole thing of freedom.

As you know, from when I came in after dear, dear Tobias left, I said this is about freedom. And what's going on in the world, if you want to know why the energies are doing what they're doing, it's all about freedom.

Some people are ready for it; many are not. Some people love the word and the concept, but they're not ready to put it into their lives. Freedom requires tremendous responsibility.

It's freedom from everything, as we'll get into today. It's not just freedom from taxes. It's not just freedom from religion, even, or politics; it's your freedom – from yourself, with yourself.

Those who rant on about government freedom, they should stop for a moment and take a look – are they free within themselves? It has nothing to do with conspiracies, businesses, governments, religions or anything else, because one can be free even in the greatest density of all of those other factors. You can be in prison and be absolutely free. It's actually a tremendous experience being imprisoned and having to find your freedom. Tremendous experience. Life will never be the same.

I was instrumental in working with those back in Europe, particularly the ones you know as the Freemasons, to create this place of freedom. It wasn't the only place, actually. There were a number of places, Australia, in particular, other countries around the world. I don't want to get into the list because you're going to start comparing, but this was one of the places. It had the appropriate energies. It had the appropriate intentions, so it started to come together. Thirteen colonies, 13 original colonies, and of course, the number 13 – not bad at all. Actually, it's a very, very sacred number. But it's gotten its bad rap, Friday the 13th. As so many of you know, where did Friday the 13th come from? Why 13th? Well, it had to do with the Knights Templar who were called to various locations in Europe on a Friday the 13th a long, long time ago on behalf of the church and the governments; called to a meeting, to a grand gathering and celebration, and executed on that day. So ever since Friday the 13th has had this reputation, this energy around it.

Most don't understand it. They just hear "Friday the 13th." They're superstitious. Thirteen, a beautiful number; thirteen colonies started the United States of America.

And the Declaration of Independence, which actually wasn't called that at the time it was written and signed; the Declaration of Independence, actually voted on by the Continental Congress at the time, voted on on July 2nd – not July 4th, but July 4th had a little better numerological date – and it was finally ratified, the final drafts. But there are certain things in it, and again, I was there embodied, kind of, working with the Founding Fathers; also a large, large influence that I and the Freemasons had in developing this.

And one of the most common phrases in consciousness right now was "All men are created equal." Actually, it wasn't the original wording. The wording that we wanted was later changed; what we wanted was "All beings are created equal." But, you see, the Founding Fathers were all men so it said, "All men are created equal." Actually, in the original version I had written, "All beings are created equal, but some just have more karma than others” (laughter). That was cut out, of course.

It’s very true. All souled beings are equal. Equal in opportunity, equal in potential, equal in their freedom. But many carry a lot of karma. Karma from their past lives, karma from their ancestors, karma from society. A lot of them carry that and therefore don’t give themselves the true freedom that they really deserve.

The discussion of karma goes way back to the time of Tobias saying it’s just a belief. It’s not real. It’s not out there in the cosmos. Nobody’s keeping track. There are really no Akashic Records recording all this. One is free of their karma the moment they let go of it. You could have the worst rap sheet in the world; you can have lifetime and lifetime of bad deeds, and the moment you say, “I release that burden, that karma. I release it, guilt free.” It’s a hard thing to do when you feel bad about yourself, when you have hurt other people, when you’ve hurt yourself. It feels almost irresponsible. But it’s actually the most responsible thing you can do, because the moment you let go of your karma, the moment you let go of your perceptions of the past, it changes the future potential. Like Tobias said, the future is the past healed, released.

So the Founding Fathers, also in writing the original document, put in a line that “All beings have the right to the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.” Actually, the original version, then it got changed of course, the original version is “All beings have the non-alien right ...” (a few chuckles), because, you see, aliens should not be interfering with humans and with the human way. What do they know about the human journey? “All beings have the non-alien right to life, liberty and the pursuit of enlightenment.” The pursuit of enlightenment. It was actually Benjamin Franklin who said, “I don’t like that word so much.

‘Enlightenment,’ what does it mean? How will people perceive this?” And, of course, he wanted to change it to ‘happiness.’ And I said, “Ben ...” (laughter) I did. I really did. I said, “Ben, what is happiness anyway?” And Ben got a big smile on his face.

Now Ben was a bit of a hedonist; he loved the food, the drink, the ladies, anything that tickled his big old pleasure center. And he had a big smile on his face. “Happiness,” he said, “Everybody will know what that means.” So it was changed. Afterwards I said, “Ben, just go fly a kite” (laughter). I don’t like that change that was put in there. But it is what it is – “Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.” And if you believe my stories, I love you. (more chuckles) Mostly true though. I truly was there. The Masons, the Freemasons, had an incredible influence in the founding of this country. It’s about freedom.

Freedom. I’ll come back to it from what we talked about years ago that got so many people upset. Are you ready for it, your own freedom, from how you perceive yourself, the limitations of your self-perception? Freedom has nothing to do with the outside world. Freedom is a very personal thing within yourself.

Free to be you. Free of the guilt or the shame or the burden of the past.

You get past that, there is no government, there is no religion, there is no neighborhood or anyone that can tell you how to live. You simply go out of that algorithm. I’ll talk about that later.

So here we are on July 4, 2015. Here we are – here you are – in realization – not in pursuit, but realization – of your life, how you want to create it, liberty and enlightenment.

Let’s take a good deep breath with that.

Independence Day

It’s Independence weekend, I understand, Fourth of July weekend in the United States and also Canadian Day. “Eh.” Fourth of July, and I have a particular connection and a passion for it. I came over to the United States on several different occasions, physically, taking a boat over. I took a different name. I didn’t want to go by Count Saint-Germain, so I took a different name. I said I was from England. My last name was Abbott, and I came over here and was very much involved with what is now called the Declaration of Independence.

LINDA: Oh, of course.

ADAMUS: Of course. No, this is a very true story, and I had a very strong connection with the Masons, because back then the Masons, Masons are the ones who were the stone workers. And most people really aren’t aware of that, that you had to be in the guild and the guild was controlled by the Church and the Church only let you in if you were willing to – ahem – take care of ... (Adamus starts passing out money) He doesn't carry a lot of money anymore. I'd give you ... ah, geez! Okay, here we ... (Linda intervenes) Stop that. Stop that. Ahem (some laughter).

So, the guild. You had to pay the Church to work. And if you weren't in the guild, if you didn't pay properly, you didn't get to work. So, the Masons were started. The Masons also had a good understanding of the mysteries. They really understood. They understood the pyramids. They understood a lot of the Sacred Geometry. See, the Church wouldn't allow that, but in the Masons it was studied. And I don't want to say it was a secret society, but there were certain things that were kept amongst the Masons. So, I worked closely with them, and truly the likes – I'm not exaggerating; Linda always wonders if I'm exaggerating stories, and a lot of times I do (Linda laughs) – I worked closely with George Washington.

LINDA: (chuckles) Sure.

ADAMUS: I called him George (Linda laughs again). He called me Dick.

LINDA: (laughs loudly) Oh, yeah! I believe it! (she continues laughing loudly and some audience laughter)

ADAMUS: My name was Richard Abbott and once in a while he would call me Dick. Well, I don't understand the humor in that (more chuckles). Richard, Dick, a nickname? Do any of you – you have nicknames, right?

So, George said, "Dick" (Adamus chuckles), "How do we lay this out? How do we frame the Declaration of Independence?" And we brought in the likes of Hancock and Jefferson, and I dealt with many, if not all of them, kind of behind the scenes.

This place that is now called United States of America was set up as a new world, a new Earth. It was a place for freedom, although it's never really been free. It's never been free. There was the supposition of freedom, but actually, because of the early ones who came over were very involved in the Church, there wasn't a terrible lot of freedom. There was a lot of angst about other religions if you weren't part of the English Church – and that's why I chose to be English just so I could maneuver around better – but it was designed for people to come from all over the world to meld, to have certain freedoms. It was designed not as a democracy so much as a Republic, but the people had a voice in it, which they really didn't have in most other places in the world and particularly in Europe. It was quite an effort to unify Europe back in the early through the late 1700s and, to a degree, it worked. To a degree people had more freedom than ever before, but it still didn't meet the requirements of so many people who were looking for something different. So, they came here from all over the world literally. It's one of the biggest melting pots in the world, other than perhaps Brazil. They came from all over the world seeking religious freedom, freedom to work, but oddly enough many of them were initially indentured servants. They agreed to be slaves for usually about ten years in order for the passage to come over. But it meant that much to them, that they were going to give up 10, sometimes 15, 20 years of their life, if they brought their families, so that the ones coming after them would have so many more freedoms in their life.

I had great passion for what was being done here, because I knew that it had the potential to spread around the world and, to a degree, it has. By the way, as a backup to America, the backup, in case things didn't work out so well here, was Ah-taRa, Australia. And, in a way, Australia also, it was a prison colony. It was your mates, your cellmates that went there. It was a place where freedom was demanded, actually, because of those who had been in prison, many of them imprisoned falsely.

So, with the dynamics of all this taking place, and at the same time Europe was going through its changes, changes in politics, getting away from the monarchies and the royals – that was a lot of work. That was very challenging. Not so much because the monarchs or the royals didn't want to give up their power. In a way, they didn't have a choice, because, well, the peasants, the people at the time were so rebellious that they would just kill them. And we have things like Bastille Day coming up pretty soon, the opening of the prisons and letting people out.

But I bring this up now because this whole question, "Are humans really ready for freedom?" – a question I had raised many years ago in a Shoud and people were very upset about it – but I still contend that the jury's out and possibly leaning towards no, they're not. Some freedoms, yes, or what I call the pretense of freedom, just because you could decide whether you want to wear black socks or white socks on a day, but even prisoners sometimes have that freedom. The freedom to work. Well, how stupid is that? Freedom to work. Why would you want to work? Why would you want to have to go to a job, even if you can pick your job? Other than if you enjoy doing it, but why work? That's not freedom.
